

Friday,
December 2
5- 7pm

Behind the Housing Crisis

The roots of gentrification and displacement in California

The housing crisis in California is devastating communities and families across the region, stripping wealth, disconnecting people from each other and opportunity, and generating patterns of segregation and stratification that could have effects lasting generations. To find a way out of this crisis, we must look at the forces underneath and the opportunities to shift these structures. Join us at this event for all who are impacted by displacement and invested in creating long term housing solutions, featuring three leaders with decades of research, analysis, and organizing on how displacement can be overcome. We can achieve the dream of a California where everyone belongs.

María Poblet
Executive Director,
Causa Justa :: Just Cause

John A. Powell
Director of Haas Institute for a Fair and Inclusive
Society, UC Berkeley

Dick Walker
Professor of Economic Geography UC Berkeley

Niles Hall, 1233 Preservation Park Way, Oakland, CA 94612

Event is free, please pre-register at <http://bit.ly/2fwbMSO>

Wheelchair accessible, and open to the public.

More info at haasinstitute.berkeley.edu/events

Sponsored by Haas Institute for a Fair and Inclusive Society and Causa Justa :: Just Cause